George Ade

The master of American humor—the creator of the fables in slang—the author of a dozen popular plays—has written a series of 1911 FABLES IN SLANG. The first of them will appear in the Illustrated Sunday Magazine section of this paper next Sunday. They are sidesplitting and wonderful. Do not fail to read the first one of these next Sunday.

The Casket of Pearls

H. B. Marriott Watson, author of "The House Divided," "The Hurricane" and other standard books, has written for the Illustrated Sunday Magazine of this paper, a cleverly humorous story, "The Casket of Pearls."

Edwin L. Sabin

Mr. Sabin writes for all the big weeklies and monthlies. That is why he is a regular contributor to the Illustrated Sunday Magazine of this paper. If you want to read a powerful bit of pen work, read his story, "The Blank Wall," in the magazine next Sunday.

Elizabeth's Blighted Loves

Deshler Welch is preparing for the Illustrated Sunday Magazine of this paper a tabloid series of stories dealing with the loves of some of the world's wonderful women. They are historic and true. They are the most illuminating bits of writing that have ever appeared anywhere.

Lady Blacksmiths and Motorcar Drivers

Harold Arthur Drake, a Washington writer, has been delving into the statistics at the Nation's capital and he has prepared an interesting article, telling you just how many women blacksmiths there are in the United States, and just how many women follow, odd trades. Appropriately illustrated, it makes a great feature in the country of t trades. Appropriately illustrated, it makes a great feature in the illustrated Magazine next Sunday.

Frank Fables of Family Folks

Sophie Irene Loeb possesses a keen discernment and a facile pen. She holds up the various members of the family in their true light in her series of "Frank Fables" which appear every little while in the Illustrated Sunday Magazine. Next Sunday she tells about "The Man Who Can't Laugh."

The Way of the Gods

An unusual story is the one which appears next Sunday under that title. It is by Gerrard Harris and it shows the peculiar workings of fate in a remarkable manner.

A Dozen Other Big Features

They include: "How Employes Are Selected," "Some of Wars' Unwritten History," "A Bangs Idiot Yarn," "After the Vacation," "Across the Dead Line," "Strange Things in Strange Places," "Mostly Otherwise," by Cora Hazard, "The Portable Toothbrush," "Underground Waters," etc., etc.

REMEMBER

You can get these great features in this city, next Sunday, only by
